

STAND AGAINST VIOLENCE

Storyboard Instructions

This week we want to continue to look forward to when we start going out again. We have included 2 storyboard templates for you and what we would like you to do is to choose one of them and write and illustrate a 'story' that you might give either to a younger brother or sister or a person at school that is in a younger year than you.

The story needs to be advice from you really. As we are starting to go out again those younger people might have forgotten all the advice they have had before about staying safe. This advice can range from letting people know where you are going to how to run away rather than stand and fight- remember running is the only way you have control of the ending, once you stand and fight you don't know what might be coming at you – you could have a fully- fledged Ninja warrior on your hands that you were not expecting – so always get away!

It can be a story about someone who encounters a situation or even several different situations or a character that takes them through different pieces of advice it is up to you how you write your story. Just remember they are younger than you, so it needs to be appropriate to their age and something that they might come across and written in a way they would understand- other than that its entirely up to you!

Have fun and why not share your finished stories with us!
